• To strive, to seek, to find • and not to yield...

This Centennial Yearbook is dedicated to all the students and staff who have made Assumption the school it is today. Whether the school has changed locations, professors, demographics or surface area, Assumption has been committed to providing a liberal arts education that echoes the "Learn. Achieve. Contribute." theme.

As our mission states, "We are the only Assumptionist sponsored college in the world, maintaining a unique presence in Catholic higher education. Assumption is designed to recruit and graduate individual men and women whose educational outcomes of competence, character and Christian compassion are outward signs and enduring expressions of our internalized motto of 'Until Christ Be Formed In You'."

a peek into our past 100 years and present

Imagine if your life was as dramatic as the history of Assumption College. One of your houses would be burnt down, only to be destroyed by a tornado shortly after you rebuilt. While you were growing up, you would have lived with a few guys. However, the women would eventually outnumber the men. Finally, imagine how many visitors would have influenced your development.

For over 100 years, Assumption College has grown during 20th century and continues to expand. Students attended classes during World War I, the Great Depression, World War II, and the Cold War. Students were enrolled when the Beatles first appeared on the Ed Sullivan Show and during all the Woodstock concerts. This section offers a glimpse of Assumption's vast past.

Humble Beginnings in Greendale

The vision for Assumption College started in the mid-1800's in France with Fr. Emmanuel d'Alzon, educator and founder of the Augustinians of the Assumption, whose cherished project was the establishment of a Catholic university. The College's very humble beginnings in 1904 included just 10 students who were charged $10 per month. The College's start began with the purchase of a few building on Fales Street in 1903, in the Greendale section of Worcester. Serving primarily Franco-American students, the College was granted its charter to confer Bachelor of Arts degrees in 1917.

A College with Franco-American Roots

Throughout the 1920s, 30s, and 40s, the College was led by European Assumptionists who were focused on educating a bilingual elite among the Franco-American population of New England. It was not until after World War II, when American-born Assumptionists rose to the leadership of the college that the institution sought and gained accreditation from the New England Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools. The 1949 proclamation, established the College's academic quality which was previously evident from the steady stream of well-disciplined Assumption graduates who often distinguished themselves in further endeavors despite the fact that they had graduated from an accredited college.

A New Start at Salisbury

The decade of the 1950's marked a time of both destruction and rebuilding for Assumption College. On June 9, 1953, the Assumption campus, located in the Greendale section of Worcester, was devastated by what is known as the deadliest New England Tornado. The tornado virtually left the campus in ruins and took the lives of two Assumptionist sisters. With over 4 million dollars in damages, major changes were needed to rebuild the campus.

Instead of rebuilding the Assumption College campus in the same location, it was decided that the College would be relocated.

After several months of searching, Father Henri Moquin, A.A. purchased a 95-acre tract of land on Salisbury Street. In 1954, the College celebrated its Golden Jubilee, which allowed the Assumptionists to publicly thank the community for the overwhelming support they received since the destruction of the tornado. With a new location and the support of the community, the College started the process of rebuilding.

By the year 1956 five buildings were ready for occupancy in November: La Maison Francaise, The Dining Hall, Alumni Residence Hall, Kennedy Science Hall, and the power and heating plant. Six months later the first commencement on the new campus took place at the Dining Hall and featured

According to a poll published in The Provocateur in 1967, 81% of the males on campus that year thought that women would be a good addition to Assumption. The first women to attend Assumption College arrived in 1969. They were greeted by upperclassmen who offered roses and help with carrying luggage. The 1970 yearbook was dedicated to the first female students on campus. In May 1973, 150 men and 80 women were graduated.

Along with the admission of women to Assumption's campus, several other changes took place within the campus. The baseball and soccer fields were built in 1971, while the first campus center was built in the basement of Founders Hall. During the fall of 1978, the Center for Continuing Education was inaugurated.

This expansion of Assumption's campus and educational facilities was the beginning of a new period of growth that would continue through the 1980s and 1990s.

Assumption Moves into the Future

Today, Assumption College, situated on 175 park-like acres, stands among its peers as a leader of liberal arts education in the rich Catholic tradition. With the recent completion of more than $50 million in new construction projects, including the new Science Center, Information Technology Center, new classrooms, art studios and four new residence halls, Assumption College has positioned itself to meet the changing needs of the millennial generation.

As Assumption College celebrates its Centennial, it recommits itself to its mission to provide an intellectual, spiritual and social environment designed to attract, retain and graduate students who pursue ethical professional careers and personal lives based on values supported by both faith and reason.

Senior Portraits

Congratulations to the members of the Class of 2004. You have all helped us celebrate the Centennial year of Assumption College and open our newest facility, the Richard and Janet Testa Science Center. Our Centennial Convocation speaker, Dr. Dennis O'Brien, reminded all of us that knowledge is not the same as truth. "Knowledge does not arrest the senses, but truth always stops the heart." May you all find the truth that stops the heart. Learn. Achieve. Contribute. Until Christ Be Formed In You.

Friendships to Last a Century

Faculty.

The Professors and

And so the final piece of the Assumption puzzle is shifting into place during those closing days of our senior year. These past four years have given you a gift that will last you for your lifetime, and that will especially sustain you in the coming months and years, when you find yourself away from Assumption, away from the web of friends and mentors and teachers you have woven here: the gift of your Assumption memories.

You will miss your time here, I promise you that; and you may even spend your first year after college as I did, wishing desperately that you were back at school, missing your friends and the lifestyle you have forged here. People will tell you to look forward, to think about your future, and they are right; you should look forward and think about the future.

But my hope for you is that every once in a while you look backwards, too, and remember your time here, and remember something important about the person you have been over the past four years.

The things we

So goodbye old mistakes, people I should have talked to, sleep deprivation, hall bathrooms, cheap paper decorations, and exams.

This article is not long enough to say goodbye to all the moments encased in my four years. Goodbye to you if you've touched my life, and thank-you for contributing to my time at Assumption. I'm thankful for my group of friends because they are so true blue. I wish I could have spent more time with them instead of going to class. It is a hard transition because I'm at a place that's comfortable, and now it's time to leave. It feels like we are starting all over again.

Graduation is just a celebration to remind us what we have accomplished, achieved, how we developed, how we have grown, and an excuse to dress us funny. It is just a ceremony to officially close this chapter of our lives and open another. So my advice is take into consideration the whole package, the good, the bad, the ugly – and count your blessings: and be strong enough to let go.

All the News That is Fit to Print

Le Provocateur is the student run bi-monthly newspaper of the Assumption College community. All Assumption students are invited to contribute to the publication as staff writers by submitting news, viewpoint, feature, and sports articles to the editors.

This past year's editorial staff included three seniors:

Kerry King, Editor-in-Chief; Sarah Messier, Feature and Online Editor; and Ashley Kita, Business Manager. The Editor-in-Chief of the 2004-2005 academic year will be Katelyn Henry.

SALISBURY HEIGHTS, DOES IT UP.

Editing a yearbook is not easy. Some may think that making a book involves throwing a few pictures and quotes on a page, but the time that is put into a yearbook is substantial. We had to force ourselves to become organized, knowing that this book is now a small portion of the history of Assumption College.

As we began work in the summer, we realized that the commitment to produce a 248 page book did not end when finals did. However, we would not be able to create this fabulous edition without the support of our awesome staff. They gave up weekends and late nights to make sure everything was cropped, edited, and imported properly. We hope you enjoy the book!

Good Times. Those are the two words that describe what happened this year in CAB. Not only did the executives and general members work together to make as many exciting and engaging events on campus this year, they also became stonger as leaders. This year held traditional events such as the St. Patrick's Day Open Mic and the Holiday and Spring Ball. Events expanded further with Guster, Hometown Throwdown, and The Graduate. Other events included The AIDS Quilt, Comedian Billy Burr, and the ever popular BINGO. With the help of the beloved Karen Manson, who brought the group to greatness, CAB succeeded in every event.

Become Someone's Hero

The Reach Out Center strives to provide an opportunity for everyone at Assumption College to give back through community service. This year we coordinated over 550 volunteers for 20 weekly volunteer programs, such tutoring and after-school programs, activities in local shelters, soup kitchen assistance, and visiting with residents in nursing homes. Also, for those people who want to make a difference but do not have a consistent weekly time to do so, we sponsor One-Shot events, such as this year's "Intimate Violence Awareness Event: The Right to Be Safe" and the building of the Poet Hill Playground as part of the college's centennial celebration.

Campus Ministry

Campus Ministry is committed to helping Assumption College students grow in their spiritual and religious lives. Through START and SEARCH retreats, the Mexico, Cuba, and Spring Break Missions, Candlelight Prayer, Dinner Discussion, and the numerous liturgical ministries, including the Chapel Choir, students are welcomed and encouraged to grow in their relationship with God, deeper their relationships with others, and express their faith in acts of committed service.

STUDENT GOVERNMENT ASSOCIATION

SGA was very visible on campus this year, whether meeting with administrators to examine the intervis policy or helping create an amazing Midnight Madness. SGA continuously worked on their skills, which was evident at the mid-year retreat where each class presented a lecture on leadership.

There were not as many proposals as in past years, but the importance of the proposals outweighed those factors. SGA touched upon subjects such as improving meal plans and increasing library hours. Each Senator worked hard to make Assumption College a quality experience for students, faculty, and staff.

Blades of Wartime Grass

By Eric Townsend

The morning sun crept over a withered sky Broken clouds without Hell to unleash Shining through with broken rays; reflecting
A mirror image dancing across the field.
Telling a story of its presence
A position long sought out in time Lost in seconds passing by.

The sun radiant like the moon
No longer day or night
There it is, a glimmer again; disappearing Chasing, trailing an untimely pendulum Ticking away before catching one last time
The voice from a distance speaks Echoing, surrounding, astounding to a muffled defeat.

This war ground is full of echoes, deceptions
Growing deep into the day, or night;
--whatever it is Instilling anguish and mildew on the beaten path
Fertile, futile ground, reluctant to re-grow Without warning it sprouts here and there Without warning—trampled again.

The Aggressor

By Rian Murray

Confusion, the battle cry of the aggressor, Always chillingly grilling, Confrontation, the poor man's solution,

Footsteps of insecurity a familiar dance,
It is he, who flushes the kicking spider,
He who laughs with the sickened defeat, Sunglasses by day guilt by night,
Isn't societal sunscreen enough protection?

Curse the dreaming innocence, Peer pressure grips with flickering fatuity,

You! The aggressor,
You wield a heavy ax on the dead end street,
But your walking stick meek on the mighty highway,

Life's biodegradable snowflake,
So much potential in your existence,
So much hatred in your heart,

If only the whirlwind could speak,
It could teach you,
If you'd listen.

What's In A Name

By Setarreh Massihzadegan

"Set-a-rah, that's an interesting name," one older man says, squinting at my Grassfields nametag "How do you say that?"

"Se-tar-reh," I reply.

"What kind of name is that?"

"Iranian," I answer cautiously.

"Oh." . . .

This is a prime example of perhaps my most common on-the-job encounter with the outside public. Not uncommon I'm sure for someone with a "unique," "interesting," or "different" name. Born in Boston, Massachusetts, I, Setarreh Mahtaab Massihzadegan am a breed of English, Irish, and Iranian. My father came to the United States in 1977 in hopes of finishing a medical degree and returning to Iran. He met my mother here and later the Iran/Iraq War where, needless to say, these hopes went unfulfilled. Today, my origins not only unlock the meaning of my name, but they constantly challenge me to look at the world through a slightly sharper lens than perhaps most.

If not for my name, most people would probably not think twice about my ethnicity, or eye me any differently. Even so, I am blessed/cursed with this name that permits me to be fully conscious of the hesitations and differing reactions of the customers on whom I wait at the restaurant, among others. When the usual dialogue ensues, I am perhaps too aware of the customers who carefully ponder what they believe to be an objective and fair response, meanwhile noticeably uncomfortable in their plush and familiar booths.

It becomes a tiresome process to constantly be expected to discuss one's name, without actually being referred to by it. I cannot count the number of conversations I have had concerning the origin and pronunciation of my name, and while I am flattered that it makes such a convenient conversation topic, I know in the end the person with whom I am talking will not remember it an hour later. I have tried to imagine myself going through life, known by my full name, in its correct pronunciation; I cannot. It is a tease spending time with my Iranian family, especially since that is a rare occasion, where I hear my name in its true sense. Today I usually tell people to call me by my nickname, "Set," immediately upon introducing myself. When I do perchance say my name, I find that my present group of friends take amusement in it since they seem to now believe their rendition, "Se-da-ray," is actually correct. One of my high school teachers, when not confusing me with my friend Shambhavi, insisted that he liked "Se-teer-a" better. Unfortunately for him, I still plan to keep the original.

Whether the conversation is centered more upon pronunciation or origin, not all people react in the same way. Although the crowd at Grassfields consists mostly of older patrons, the clientele is by no means largely prejudice. One family, when considering the origin of my name, went out of their way to say, "Don't worry, we're not like that," wink-wink, implying that I should have been happy that at least one group of people is consciously open-minded, or at least think they are. The couple proceeded to debate for a minute or so, finally delivering the a response meant to comfort me, that they themselves were friendly with an Iranian. Was it a distant relative or a work colleague? Oh yes, work colleague. As I walked away from the table I could not help but think; Why should people congratulate themselves on befriending people of differing ethnicities in a country that prides itself on being a "melting pot"?

Visiting both close and distant Iranian relatives living in Europe was perhaps the type of experience that would benefit just about anyone who currently lives happily in a bubble of English speaking, fully American people. In each house that we visited a constant melody of intertwining languages carried though the air. Whether it was German, Farsi, English, or Italian, there was never a scarcity of laughter, food, music, or hospitality. Feeling more than slightly embarrassed for our lack of Iranian assimilation, my siblings and I attempted to add what we could to our somewhat pathetic knowledge of Iranian language and culture. It had never really come up before. Even though we may have been sorry excuses for Iranians, we were always welcomed with open arms by people who we had just met and were very distantly related. Nowhere did anyone hesitate to appoint the traditional kisses and handshakes; nowhere were we anything less than family.

Perhaps one of the best examples of this was in Germany at the Iranian party that we attended for friends of my father's sister. Although complete strangers to the family, all five of us enjoyed a night of delicious Iranian food, dancing, and music, with some German beer thrown in. I wished that I could have spoken more easily with the Farsi- and German-speaking guests, feeling instant regret, once again, for my complete American-ness. I realized then the irony in the "melting pot" that I found in Europe. I was emanating with pride at my mixture of heritage and at the same time sighing with grief at the tardiness of this realization. While I am lucky to have such a diverse group of relatives, I also have little left to show for this besides my name.

What I gained from the experience as well, besides a promise to myself to one day learn Farsi and travel to Iran, was a newfound anger at ignorance.

Although I myself have so much more to learn about the world I live in, there are vast numbers of people who do not even have the desire to do so. It is certainly not easy to challenge the ingrained perceptions we have of others, but we owe it to ourselves and to those we look upon. I know that I had no idea of what I was missing by keeping to the country and customs that I knew and I, m sure countless others may not even come to know this. For the average American, much of the unconscious prejudice goes unrecognized, but continues wafting through the air like the aroma of steak tips and crabmeat pic at Grassfields. Events like September 11th have succeeded in causing people to close themselves farther inside their comfort zone, deeply harming themselves and thus our country itself.

As Americans, we are fortunate enough to be allowed to speak our own opinions and think for ourselves, which in turn should be reason to do so without allowing these opinions or thoughts to be wrongfully tainted. I am proud to say that I am a mixture of English, Irish, and Iranian; American-born, but most of all an individual with a growing field of vision, even if my contacts need be stronger as the years go by. What every person, every country, has a responsibility to do, is to appreciate his/her culture and yet realize that we are inherently the same, no matter what our name be.

Sports

Inch by inch, play by play -- till we're finished. We're in hell right now gentleman. Believe me. And we can stay here, or we can fight our way back, into the light. We can climb out of hell, one inch at a time.

Y'know when you get old in life things get taken from you, I mean that's part of life. But you only learn that when you start losin' stuff. You find out life's this game of inches, and so is football. Because in either game, life or football, the margin for error is so small, I mean, one half a step too late or too early and you don't quite make it, one half second too slow or too fast, you don't quite catch it.

The inches we need are everywhere around us. They're in every break in the game, every minute, every second. On this team we fight for that inch. On this team we tear ourselves and everyone else around us to pieces for that inch. We claw with our fingernails for that inch. Because we know when we add up all those inches that's going to make the difference between winning and losing. Between livin' and dying. I'll tell you this in any fight it's the guy whose willing to die who's gonna win that inch, and I know that if I'm going to have any life anymore it's because I'm still willin to fight and die for that inch. Because that's what livin is. The six inches in front of your face.

Now I can't make you do it. You gotta look at the guy next to you, look into his eyes. Now, I think you're gonna see a guy who will go that inch with you. You're gonna see a guy who will sacrifice himself for this team because he knows when it comes down to it, you're going to do the same for him.

That's a team gentlemen and either we heal now as a team or we will die as individuals. That's football guys. That's all it is. Now, What are you going to do?

With only 12 members, Men's Golf is one of the smallest teams on Assumption's campus. They were led this year by head coach Tim Bibaud and assistant coach Paul Mellan. This year's captain, Josh Farmer, was the only senior. With one junior, six sophomores, and five freshmen, they had a very young team. This did not prove to be a problem, though. Though the final scores may not have reflected how well they could really play, this was one of the golf team's strongest years yet. With many players returning next year they are anticipating a Adjusting to and surviving through my first semester of college had apparently given me some hidden confidence, for as second semester progressed, I became more active both inside and outside the classroom. I actually began to really look forward to some of my classes, not only for the material being covered but for the precious few seconds at the beginning of class when I could talk to random people around me.

And now, of course, just when I really begin to enjoy it, freshman year is gone. High school graduation seems like eons ago; I've gotten so used to college life that it seems like I've been enjoying fine dining at Taylor Dining Hall throughout my whole life. But I think I've made the most of it. I've conquered my initial silly fears of adjusting to a place as friendly and familiar as Assumption. And although I've also conquered Art & Politics, both I and II, there will still be more adjustments to be made, including getting comfortable in tougher classes (English majors, wish me luck with Approaches).

Fortunately, though, I've got enough confidence under my belt to survive it all. After all, they say if you can survive your freshman year of college, you can survive anything. Now why wasn't I told that from the beginning?

ARRIVAL

WELCOME FRESHMEN

MONTREAL

CANADA

Junior

On May 1st, 2004 members of the junior class piled onto two school buses and headed into Boston. Once arriving in Boston, the students climbed aboard for a dinner dance cruise in the Boston Harbor. With a Mexican theme the students enjoyed a dinner of salad, chips, salsa, and tacos. After dinner the DJ started to play her music. There were two dance floors: one in the main dining room, and the other on the top of the boat. Junior Katie Fleming exclaimed, "Once you got used to the wind, dancing on the top deck was fun. The Boston skyline was gorgeous." Rebecca Freyenhagen agreed, "Dancing on top was one of the highlights of this evening. It was nice to see so many students from our class together and having fun." Everyone who attended this event had a good time, and formed many great memories.

During this annual SGA event, Freshmen and Sophomore halls compete against each other over two days to find out which hall will be this year's Pup Cup champion. This year's event was no different. The activities included the ever-popular Mr. and Ms. AC Pageant, scavenger hunts in Taylor, a powderpuff football game, and a volleyball game. This weekend of festivities is one to be remembered for years to come.

Sheer Madness

That's right, the Assumption Greyhounds were the pride and joy during this huge pep rally to support the beginning season of the Men's and Women's Basketball team. As SGA passed out shirts and trinkets throughout the night, the Step Team, Dance Team, and Cheerleaders entertained us with their amazing talent and their upbeat dancing. Their moves got the crowd going.

We all went mad crazy when the teams came out and showed their stuff off. The dunk contest, as usual, was air defying. Scanning the crowd of blue and white painted faces, one could tell that Midnight Madness was one of the most anticipated and loved events of the year.

LADIES AND GENTS, OPEN MIC NIGHT

AC Students Show Off Their Talents in Music, Dance, Comedy, Poetry, and Costume

There have been many Open Mic Nights here at Assumption, yet few were as eventful as this past fall's competition. Open to all AC students, the night had a strong showing of music. Bands and solo acts performed anything from acoustic ballads, ska punk, and good old rock and roll. During the intermission, prizes were given for best Halloween Costume.

Overall, the winners of the night were from the poetry, music and dance categories. Surprisingly, the huge showing of musical acts did not sweep the awards as many audience members expected. However, the competitors and crowd had a fun-filled evening.

"It's nice to see all the people supporting their friends up on stage," said Senior Ethan Beglay, a member of Killing Kamilla.

It's not just because it is midnight that we go. It has nothing to do with our need to return to our freshman and sophomore year memories of Taylor Dining Hall, or that we are all up studying for finals. It is the fact that breakfast with friends is the best meal served at Assumption College.

Students filled up the brightly decorated Taylor this year and dug into their sausage and waffle meals. We enjoyed having our faculty and staff serving us, the students. The jukebox added a bit of entertainment; people danced and ate their food. Most importantly, we could forget about the quantum physics final that we had the next morning at 9 a.m.

Missions

Over the last four years Mission Programs have traveled to: New York, Lansdale and West Philadelphia, Baltimore, Washington DC, New Mexico, Texas, Mexico, El Salvador, and Cuba. Each program combined elements of service, community, and faith. Whether the day was focused on construction work or playing with kids, each evening's prayer and reflection brought new insights into the gift of faith.

I'm Leaving on a Jet Plane...

Every year Assumption provides opportunities for students to spend Spring Break traveling across the globe with other students and their professors. This year Nice, France was among one of the many destinations students could choose from. This trip was run by the French Department. While in France, students also had the chance to visit Cannes, home of the famous film festival. France was not the only location that students visited. They also had the opportunity to travel to England with the English Department.

Many students took advantage of both trip opportunities and had the time of their life.

Hometown ThrowDown

Hometown ThrowDown started off the Spring Fever Weekend with a bang. Three bands, Undercurrent, Ether Wave, and September Twilight played the night away in Charlie's. Undercurrent played many covers and started the night off. They were followed by Ether Wave whose psychedelic music kept everyone going. September Twilight wrapped up the evening with songs of their own. This was a fun filled event that got everyone in the mood for the Spring Fever events the following day.

Socrates said, "The unexamined life is not worth living." And we sure had a series of examinations here, both inside and out of the classroom. It is a weird time after graduation: one full of uncertainty, sadness and excitement. I can't help but think we are now like that title to a Fatboy Slim Album, "Halfway Between the Gutter and the Stars." By the time you get this book in September, so much will have happened since that sweltering May 15th day. Some of you will have great jobs, or will be starting grad school, or will be really irritating mom and dad with your full time residence on the couch watching "The Chappelle Show."

They say college is the best four years of your life. I don't know about that. But, what I do know is that like many other students, these four years let me grow to see how good life can actually be. To the class of 2004: ave atque vale; farewell and goodbye.

Our final

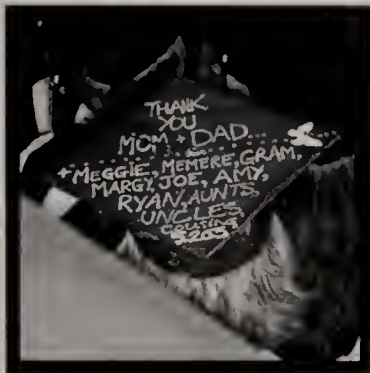

Just to give you a little perspective as to how long I've been around, I was born in December 1903, 10 months BEFORE Assumption College opened its doors for the first time. I was a student at Assumption when the Boston Red Sox won the World Series with Babe Ruth as a pitcher in 1918. I don't remember a ticker-tape parade, but if I knew we'd still be waiting for another World Series title 86 years later, maybe I would have savored the championship in 1918!

The "real world" is a daunting place, but please know, that what you have learned at Assumption has prepared you well for what lies ahead. And as the time passes by, you will soon realize that a great deal of what you learned here was not always taught in a classroom. Keep that in mind as you travel through life. You can learn something from every person you meet--the cafeteria worker, the department secretary, or a member of the grounds crew--every person. Learn from them.

And finally, my last piece of advice is to share and give back. Give of yourself as much as you can. Share advice. Share assistance. Share companionship. When you contribute something of yourself for the benefit of others, it will come around to bless you time and time again.

In closing, it was suggested that I say a few words in French. I will say very few. Etudiantes et e tudians de la promotion (de) 2004, je vous salue!

Which means, The Class of 2004, I salute you. Congratulations. Thank you.

To My Jules:
 "A daughter is a gift whose worth cannot be measured except by the heart." Julie for all you are, and for all you you're yet to be, having you for a daughter is one of the greatest gifts life has given me.
 Love Mom

"There are souls in the world which have the gift of finding joy everywhere and of leaving it behind them when they go."
 -Fredrick Fish
 You not only bring and leave joy but love and care as well; a beautiful attribute to an awesome person.
 Love you always,
 Mom

Paula Canning

Congratulations! In the past 4 years you've conquered and pursued every avenue that was offered to you and explored all its possibilities. You definitely took the "stairs to success versus the elevator." You always bring happiness and touch the hearts of everyone you encounter.
 Love you,
 Mom and Mike

Cara Chiaraluce

In March of 1984 a true miracle was born, Cara Chiaraluce. A miracle is an act of God and that was you. Some words to describe you are funny, serious, happy, sad, loving life, independent, caring, sharing, loving to hear you laugh- are only a few of your great qualities. Cara, we are very proud to have you as our daughter, but more importantly we are proud to know you as a person.
 Graduating from college is another milestone to be proud of. Our little miracle is an adult ready to enter this ever changing society.
 We love you and hope you look to your faith as guidance in the years to follow. Always there for you... Mom and Dad and Andy

Jacqueline Connolly

Jackie,
 Our warmest congratulations on your Bachelors Degree in English from Assumption and for all of your hard work and many achievements over the past four years. We are in awe of all that you've accomplished. Continued success in your future in writing. Congratulations also to Lea, Rachel, Amy E., Katherine, Amy P., Annette, Sarah M. and all of the rest of the Class of 2004!
 Love,
 Mom, Dad, and Sean

Amy Contois

Amy, you have grown into a beautiful woman, and we could not be more proud of the person you have become. As you move on to pursue your hopes and dreams, always know that we are by your side supporting you every step of the way. We love you!
 Congratulations! Mom and Dad

Megan Curry

Dear Meg,
You are a ray of sunshine in our lives. We are so blessed to have you as a daughter/sister. For the past four years, you have worked very hard and have grown in wisdom, charm, and beauty. Toby, Daddy, and I are extremely proud of the young lady that you have become. We wish you much success and happiness in all you do, and thank God that you will always be a part of our lives.
We love you.

Ethan DeGeorge

Congratulations Ethan! We are very proud of you. You have worked very hard for four years.
We hope that all your dreams come true. You are a bright, funny, and loving son and brother

I remember when you were a little girl, and you were always happy all the time. Like a rose bud, you turned out to be so beautiful. I am so proud of you, to have a daughter who graduated from college. I love you, and God bless you.

Mom

Adrienne Gardner

A-You're all grown up but it's still the same smile! Well, it's over.
You've been working very hard over the last four years-accomplished quite a bit- and had some fun doing it. You've made us proud. Congratulations on your graduation.

We love you.
Mom & Dad

Jennifer Genovevo

Dear Jennifer, Always know the true value of time- snatch, seize, and enjoy every moment of it. Never forget that the best way to make your dreams come true is to always believe in yourself- we always have! You have given us great joy!

Love always,
Mom, Dad, and Adriano

Adam Gravit

We are very proud of the man you have become. Your persistence, integrity, compassion, and honesty have helped you complete another chapter in your life. Wishing you much love and happiness as you continue your journey. Success be yours in everything you do.

Love and God Bless You Your Family

Marissa Guadalupe

Marissa, Congratulations, you did it!
Where have the years gone? It seems like yesterday you were a baby and now you're a young woman that we are so proud of.
May your future be filled with health, happiness, love & success.
May all your dreams come true!

Love,
Mom & Dad

Tiffany Gull

May God continue to bless you with joy and guide you through a life time rich in happiness, health, and fulfillment. Always continue to follow your dreams and you will be who you want to be. We are so proud of you.

Congratulations!

Love,
Mommy, Meredith, Nani, and Poppy

Ron Halterman

Ron,
I am incredibly proud of you. You have always made me proud. You always knew how to give your best, and push yourself to do more. I remember the laps at practice the first year you played football. You tried so hard and never quit, no matter how tough things got. Then, it was off to R.B.T.V. Once again you showed your incredible stamina, getting up at 4 AM and running 8 miles before breakfast. Ron Burton knew that you were special. He saw something extra that you have. That's why he asked you to speak before 600 strangers.

You should be so very proud of all that you have accomplished. God has a great plan for your life. I have always known that.

Janet Harrington

Congratulations Janet!
We're very proud of you.
God bless you on all your endeavors as you begin a new journey in your life.

Love,
Dad, Mom, MJ, and Chris

Danielle Hartung

To Our Beautiful Daughter, You are a "shining" example of what a daughter can be- loving & compassionate, beautiful & good, honest & principled, determined & independent, sensitive & intelligent.
You are a "shining" example of what every parent wishes there daughter were. We are so very proud of you!!
Congratulations!!
We love you Danielle,
Mom & Dad

Terri Hess

Congratulations on your graduation from Assumption College. We are very proud of you. Best of luck in your future grow and learn. Embrace your life "as a child." We love you very much.

Mom, Dad, and Brendan

Melissa McLaughlin

Melissa,
You are truly a very special person.
An individual pursuing her own beliefs and ideas. Making sacrifices and commitments has taken you from you first steps in life to a productive adult with a promising future. Our sense of pride is overwhelming and our support for you will always be sincere.

We love you,
Mom, Dad and Valerie

Jessica Metcalf

Jessica,
You did it!
Congratulations on a job well done.
These years have passed too quickly.
You have become a fine young woman. We wish you much success and happiness on the next road you travel down.
May all your hopes and dreams come true.
We love you,
Mom, Dad, Nicole

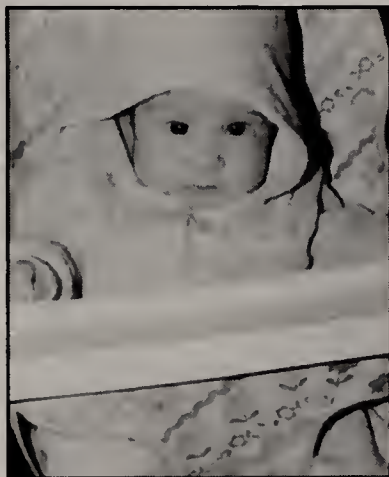

Coleman O'Toole

Congratulations Coley!! You made it!! We are so very proud of you and know you will do well in the future; if you ever need us we will be here for you to turn to. We love you! Good luck!
Love always,
Dad, Mom, Tim, and Meg

Matthew Perfetuo

As you graduate you can look back with pride at all you have accomplished. You can look forward with confidence to a future filled with promise. We are so proud of you and all your achievements. Wherever you go, however you get there, we will always be there for you.
Congratulations Matt, with all our love, Mom & Dad

Michael Perfetuo

Congratulations Mike... We know you will accomplish your goals because of your determination. You had fun, you worked hard, and you made good friends. You have always made us proud. We wish you the happiest and most successful life. With all our love and pride, Mom & Dad

Lisa Pisano

Kendra Rozett

Kendra,
We are very proud of your many accomplishments and the kind of person you have become.
Great Job!
Congratulations!
Love,
Mom and Dad

Frank Rubino

It's hard to believe that you entered the world weighing only one pound and thirteen ounces. Look at you now! You are a son most parents only dream of having.
You are a great brother to your twin Anthony, your younger brother Jarrod and little sister Tina.
Dad and Mom are so proud of you and I know Nana and Grampa and Dad are watching your every move from above and equally proud. Good luck as you enter the next phase of your life.
Lots of love-Mom, Dad, Anthony, Jarrod, and Tina

Amy Ryder

Dear Amy,
"You have brains in your head.
You have feet in your shoes.
You can steer yourself
Any direction you choose.
You're on your own. And you know what you know.
And you are the girl who'll decide where to go." -Dr. Suess

Amy Serino

My sweet Amy, you were a beautiful baby and you have grown into a lovely adult.
I'm so proud of you.
Congratulations.
Love, Mom

Rachel Smith

Congratulations Rachel,
You have met every challenge with enthusiasm, energy, and determination.
Your happiness and smile light our world. The best is yet to come. We love you.
Mom and Dad

Lindsay Soulard

We are just as proud of you now as the day you were born. You will always be our little girl.
Congratulations.
We Love You
Mom, Dad & Matt

Jennifer Spirlet

Jen, Much happiness and success to you in whatever you do in life.
Just remember we love you!
Love, Mom, Pam, Winnie, and your family and friends
P.S Good luck in grad. school!
And best wishes to your friends.

Susan Sullivan

Dearest Susan (Emilytinamarie), You are the daughter every parent prays for. Your high standards and sweet sense of humor make us blush with love and pride. The world is blessed with your kind and gentle spirit. Thank you for sharing your accomplishments with us.
We Love You,
Mom & Dad

Devin Sweeney

Devin we are very proud of you.
No matter what the challenge you have always been determined to conquer the world. At one it was learning to feed yourself, at twenty-one it was leaving your safe environment and travel across the world. God bless and thanks for being our daughter.

Lisete Tavares

Lisete,

Os teus Pais se sentem muito orgulhosos de ti por este ano terminares a escola. E por teres sido boa aluna. Fazias sempre o teu trabalho da escola sem precisar agente te mandar. Nunca formos a escola por tua causa. Agente se sente muito felizes por isso. E tambem tens esforcado muito a trabalhar para pagares o teu colegio. Te desejamos muita boa sorte para o trabalho que forses. Felicidades Lisete!!

Con Amor,
Mae e Pai

To my little sister, Lisete, of whom I am very proud:

"You were always there beside me,
As we grew through the years;
You shared my sorrows and my joys'
My laughter and my tear.

There's something that God has given me,
A gift so sweet and rare;
A love for my sister deep in my heart,
A friend who will always be there."
- Alison Chambers

We will always be here for you.
Love Always,
Salette and Paul

Christina Terrasi

Christina,
We can't think of you without smiling. We love you.
Congratulation on your accomplishment! This is just one of the many milestones over the years that have made us proud of you. You did it; you kicked some ass and got some A's!
Love, Mom, Dad and David

David Thomas

Congratulations!
"You measure the size of an accomplishment by the obstacles you had to overcome to reach your goals." You have proven that with hard work and dedication there is no obstacle that could prevent you from reaching your goals. I'm so proud of you.
Love Mom

Erin Thompson

Erin, look at this sweet, beautiful little girl with the big smile. You've grown into an intelligent, confident, caring, and loving young woman. You're the twinkle in your Dad's eye and you're Mom's best friend. We couldn't be more proud to call you our daughter. Congratulations. Love Mom and Dad.

Catherine Umina

Johnny, and Andy.

Tim Waas

Tim, congratulations on earning your degree! We've really enjoyed watching you grow from a little tyke into a fine, intelligent young man. We are very proud of you and so glad you're our son. We wish you all the best! You have a bright future ahead of you.

Much Love,
Mom and Dad

Julie Wasik

Dear Julie,
Having you for a daughter has been our most precious gift. You continue to touch everyone who has the privilege of knowing you.
May your future be filled with happiness, good health, and success. May all your hopes and dreams come true.

Love,
Mom and Peter

Michael Kuo- Hsiung Wen

Dear Michael,
Congratulations! You never cease to amaze us. We love how you are reaching for success with a positive attitude. We are proud to be your family and will always love you for who you are.

Love,
Dad, Mom, and Connie

Malia Wiley

Malia,
Congratulations!
Always the little angel...

Kyle Yermalovich

Kyle,
Congratulations on your academic and athletic achievements. We are very proud of you and want to thank for so many wonderful memories.

Remember, as you go through life,
"play hard and smart with all your heart, keep your head up high, and earn your luck."

Love

Siobhan Ziccardi

"For the structure that we raise,
Time is with materials filled,
Our todays and yesterdays
Are the blocks on which we build.

Build today, then, strong and sure,
With a firm and ample base;
And ascending and secure Shall tomorrow find its place."
-Longfellow

We are very proud of you!
Love Mom, Dad, Danny '01, and Lily too!

John Zocco

Son, it seems like only yesterday we were sending you off to school. You have done so many wonderful things with your life, and it only has just begun. Now you can stop putting your name on your sister's cards and presents and buy your own (hee hee). A new computer print out for Mother's Day would be nice too! You have a wonderful ability to see only the good in people and understand that life sometimes is not fair, but you always rise above the situation, and make us proud. The road ahead of you is wide open. We trust you will make the right choices and continue to be a Christ bearer. God be with you in your journey.

Love,
Mom, Dad, Jessica, Steve, Amanda, and littlest baby Arianna
